STATINTL

I have been back from Europe approximately a month, but am leaving for London again tomorrow on a special assignment that will keep me there until September.

I certainly appreciate your sending me the Commission's report on the American Radio, but unfortunately I have not had a chance to read more than half of it. I will hold off on any comments until I have had an opportunity to complete reading the study.

I received the memorandum that the customs officials returned to you. It seems very odd now that the information in these papers should ever have been considered of value to the enemy. We will send them over to Archives to be included in our other [redacted] files.

STATINTL

Hope you are enjoying your new assignment and will look forward to seeing you sometime after I return from England.

Sincerely,

STATINTL
